(ANOTHER DREAM. What mighty agents have access, What friends from heav n, or foes from hell, Our minds to comfort or distress, When we are sleeping, who can tell? Kf.wton. In a dream, in a vision of the night, when deep sleep falleth upon men, in slumbering! upon the bed, then He openeth the ears of men and sealet h. their instruction. In the dark watches of the silent night, A pleasing, awful vision met my sight. Methought I follow d where my mother led, And saw a breathless Hero on a bed. I started back with horror and amaze, But soon I paus d; and wond ring, stood to gaze. The Hero lay, in sable armour clad; Suspended on the wall His glitt ring blade; Beside the sword, in gloomy order plac d, I saw a helmet which His head had grac d: His coat of arms, and vict ry s trophies too I saw--and then again return d to view The Hero s corse.--Methought my mother went, And left me brooding o er the strange event. No sooner had I miss d her from my side, Than I prepar d to follow; but--denied--Methought the Warrior rose, and took my arm, And led me on, and smil d at my alarm: We stopp d--my dread Companion then address d These words, which on my mem ry were impress d: God shall for ever wipe your tears...
